7 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
8 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
9 AT SEATTLE

10 UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

11 Plaintiff,

v.

12 JOSEPH LOREN ALLEN,

13 Defendant.

CASE NO. CR18-0292-JCC

ORDER

14 This matter comes before the Court on Defendant's motion to compel (Dkt. No. 36).

15 Having thoroughly considered the parties' briefing and the relevant record, the Court hereby

16 DENIES the motion for the reasons explained herein.

17 I. BACKGROUND

18 The Government alleges the following facts in the indictment against Defendant. On 19 August 23, 2018, members of the Auburn Police Department ("Auburn PD"), including Officer
20 Jeff Nelson, were briefed on Defendant's escape and felony warrants, as well as his history of 21 nine felony convictions. (Dkt. No. 1 at 2–4.) Later that day, officers positioned themselves
22 outside a location where Defendant was known to be staying, watched him leave on a
23 motorcycle, and followed him to a "known drug location." (Id. at 4.) Defendant rode in a
24 reckless manner that appeared to be a "counter-surveillance technique." (Id.) Defendant
25 eventually left on a new motorcycle, and officers followed him to a Walmart parking lot, where 26

1 Defendant appeared to be conducting drug transactions. (Id. at 4–5.) Officers moved in to
2 apprehend Defendant, and Defendant ran, jumped over a fence, and approached a car. (Id. at 5.)
3 Defendant told a passenger in the car that he would pay her $1,000 to drive him away. (Id.)
4 When the passenger refused, Defendant tried to open a rear door of the car. (Id.) The passenger
5 told the driver to lock the doors and “drive off,” and then motioned to the officers. (Id.)
6 According to the Defendant, as Defendant ran away towards a fence, Officer Nelson ran him
7 over with his patrol car. (Dkt. Nos. 20 at 2, 33 at 2.) The Government alleges that Defendant then
8 fought with several officers and “pull[ed] his right arm close to his body,” where officers later
9 found a loaded handgun after handcuffing Defendant. (Dkt. No. 1 at 5.) Officers also found
10 suspected methamphetamine and a digital scale on Defendant’s person. (Id. at 5–6.) Defendant
11 sustained two broken ankles and a dislocated shoulder from the collision with Officer Nelson’s
12 car. (Dkt. No. 20 at 2–3.)

13 Defendant has been indicted on two counts of felon in possession of a firearm, one count
14 of possession of methamphetamine with intent to distribute, and one count of possession of a 15 firearm in furtherance of a drug trafficking crime. (Dkt. No. 10.) During the course of discovery,
16 Defendant subpoenaed the Auburn PD for information regarding Officer Nelson’s employment
17 history and conduct. (Dkt. No. 26 at 2.) Officer Nelson’s behavioral assessment, a routine
18 assessment conducted at the time of Officer Nelson’s employment application, was withheld.
19 (Id.; Dkt. No. 33 at 4 n.1.)

20 Defendant now moves to compel the Government to disclose the behavioral assessment,
21 along with Officer Nelson’s application for employment with the Auburn PD, psychological
22 exam, resume, and annual performance evaluations (collectively, “application documents”).
23 (Dkt. No. 36.) Defendant seeks the application documents as evidence of Officer Nelson’s use of 24 excessive force during the August 23 arrest “to support a request for suppression” of evidence
25 obtained during that arrest. (See Dkt. No. 44 at 3.) The Government opposes disclosure of the 26 application documents because of their highly personal and sensitive nature. (Dkt. No. 37 at 4.)

1 The Government also argues that the application materials are irrelevant and immaterial to
2 Defendant's present indictment, and more pertinent to a 42 U.S.C. § 1983 claim. (Id. at 5–6.)

3 II. DISCUSSION

4 A. Motion to Compel Legal Standard

5 Upon a defendant's request, the Government must provide access to items that are 6 "material to preparing [a] defense." Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1)(E)(i); see also W.D. Wash. Local 7 Crim. R. 16(a)(2). Information is material if it is helpful to the defendant in preparing a defense.
8 United States v. Santiago, 46 F.3d 885, 893 (9th Cir. 1995). If a party fails to provide material
9 information, the Court may compel a party to comply with the rules of discovery. Fed. R. Crim.
10 P. 16(d)(2); see also W.D. Wash. Local Crim. R. 16(e).

11 B. Brady Standard for Exculpatory Evidence

12 The Government's failure to provide a defendant with access to exculpatory evidence 13 upon request "violates due process where the evidence is material either to guilt or to 14 punishment." Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 87 (1963). A finding of materiality requires "a 15 reasonable probability that, had the evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the 16 proceeding would have been different"—a "reasonable probability" being "sufficient to 17 undermine confidence in the outcome." United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 682 (1985).

18 The Government asserts that it has complied with the Federal Rules of Criminal
19 Procedure and Brady in its disclosure of material exculpatory evidence. (See Dkt. No. 37.)
20 Defendant must overcome this assertion by proving the materiality of the application documents.
21 Bagley, 473 U.S. at 674–75, 682; see also Strickler v. Greene, 527 U.S. 263, 289–91 (1999).
22 Defendant intends to use the application documents as proof of Officer Nelson's propensity to 23 use excessive force in order to show that the August 23 arrest was unreasonable. (See Dkt. No.
24 44 at 3.) But Defendant has not shown a reasonable probability that the outcome of this case
25 turns on the disclosure of the application documents. Specifically, Defendant has not established
26 that Officer Nelson's application documents are material to an adjudication of Defendant's guilt

1 or punishment for his pending firearm and drug charges. See Bagley, 437 U.S. at 682.

2       C. Standard for Impeachment Value of Evidence

3       Evidence is also considered material, and thus must be disclosed, if it could plausibly
4 impeach a witness whose credibility “may well be determinative of [the defendant’s] guilt or
5 innocence.” Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150, 154 (1972); see also Strickler, 527 U.S. at 292
6 (1999) (finding that the availability of physical evidence and additional witnesses diminishes
7 materiality of impeachment evidence); see also Silva v. Brown, 416 F.3d 980, 987 (9th Cir.
8 2005) (finding that the status of a witness as the “star” or “only” witness impacts the materiality
9 of impeachment evidence). When a defendant requests the personnel files of testifying officers,
10 the Government must examine those files and “disclose information favorable to [the] defense”;
11 if the Government is uncertain about materiality, it may submit the information to the Court for 12 in camera review. United States v. Henthorn, 931 F.2d 29, 30–31 (9th Cir. 1991).

13       The Government asserts that it has complied with the Federal Rules of Criminal
14 Procedure, Brady, and Henthorn in its disclosure of material impeachment evidence. (See Dkt.
15 No. 37.) Defendant must show that the credibility of Officer Nelson as a Government witness is 16 determinative of his guilt. See Giglio, 405 U.S. at 154. Defendant is charged with possession of a
17 firearm and methamphetamine. (Dkt. No. 10.) Physical evidence was allegedly obtained during 18 the August 23 arrest—the gun, a substance believed to be methamphetamine, and a digital scale.
19 (Dkt. No. 1 at 5–6.) There are other witnesses who may testify, such as other officers or the 20 passengers in the car Defendant allegedly attempted to carjack. These facts diminish the 21 materiality of evidence potentially impeaching Officer Nelson’s testimony. See Strickler, 527
22 U.S. at 292; Silva, 416 F.3d at 987. Therefore, Defendant has not shown that such impeachment
23 would be determinative of Defendant’s guilt or innocence to the extent that disclosure of the 24 application documents is required.

25       D. Unreasonable Search as Grounds for Suppression

26       A lawful search or seizure may be invalidated if “its manner of execution unreasonably

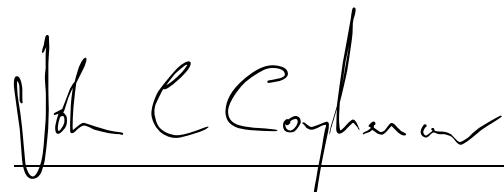

1 infringes possessory interests protected by the Fourth Amendment’s prohibition on
2 ‘unreasonable seizures.’” United States v. Jacobsen, 466 U.S. 109, 124 (1984)). “[U]se of
3 excessive force can render a search unreasonable.” United States v. Ankeny, 502 F.3d 829, 836
4 (9th Cir. 2007). To find unreasonableness requires an objective evaluation of the circumstances, 5 regardless of the actor’s subjective intent, and a “balancing of ‘the nature and quality of the 6 intrusion . . .’ against the countervailing governmental interests at stake.” Graham v. Connor,
7 490 U.S. 386, 396–97 (1989) (quoting Tennessee v. Garner, 471 U.S. 1, 6 (1985)). The Court
8 looks to the “severity of the crime at issue, whether the suspect poses an immediate threat to the 9 safety of the officers or others, and whether he is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade
10 arrest by flight.” Id. at 396.

11 Defendant seeks disclosure of the application documents to demonstrate Officer Nelson’s
12 propensity to use excessive force. (See Dkt. No. 44 at 3.) But Defendant has not shown how the 13 application documents sought would be helpful or relevant to an excessive force claim because 14 subjective intent is excluded from that analysis. See Graham, 490 U.S. at 396–97.

15 III. CONCLUSION

16 For the foregoing reasons, Defendant’s motion to compel (Dkt. No. 36) is DENIED.
